Cantori Design Challenge Project – Inspired by “007 – License to Elegance”

For the Cantori Design Challenge project, we drew inspiration from the iconic duo of Dr. No: James Bond and Honey Ryder. This pair is a cinematic milestone. James Bond is the most enduring secret agent in film history, and Sean Connery became its iconic face. Ursula Andress, emerging from the sea, forever defined the concept of the “Bond girl.”

That beach scene—elegant, sensual, and timeless—is engraved in our collective memory. From that moment, their connection unfolds in a series of intense, sophisticated encounters, ending in peace aboard a small drifting boat.

This couple encapsulates the essence of our concept:

ICONIC – TIMELESS – ELEGANT – TRADITIONAL – GLAMOROUS – SOPHISTICATED – AUTHENTIC – UNIQUE – EXCLUSIVE.

Core Materials

Our material palette is deliberately limited but meaningful:

- Sibillino travertine (from Marche region): polished and brushed for flooring; textured for bathroom walls.
- Thermo-treated Douglas wood: richly grained, with deep tonal contrast, warm and tactile.
- Bronze: used for high-impact surfaces, particularly the main wall in the living area.
- Linen: an Italian textile, used on ceilings for both its softness and acoustic absorption.

Color and Contrast Accents

- Emerald green onyx in the shower becomes a statement feature.
- Velvet and chenille fabrics in deep blue and red add warmth and visual richness.

Spaces and Experience

This project enhances spatial perception and flow. Glass partitions between the kitchen, staircase, and living area allow separation without breaking continuity.

The living room features a central seating island, creating two distinct zones:

- Projection area: a private cinema experience via Leica Cine 1—a high-end projection system with integrated screen and speakers. When not in use, the sea view remains unobstructed.
- Conversation area: positioned to fully enjoy the floor-to-ceiling sea-facing window.

The dining area is the centerpiece, framed by a spectacular curved wall of backlit bronze tubes. A custom chandelier made of Murano glass rings crowns the space.

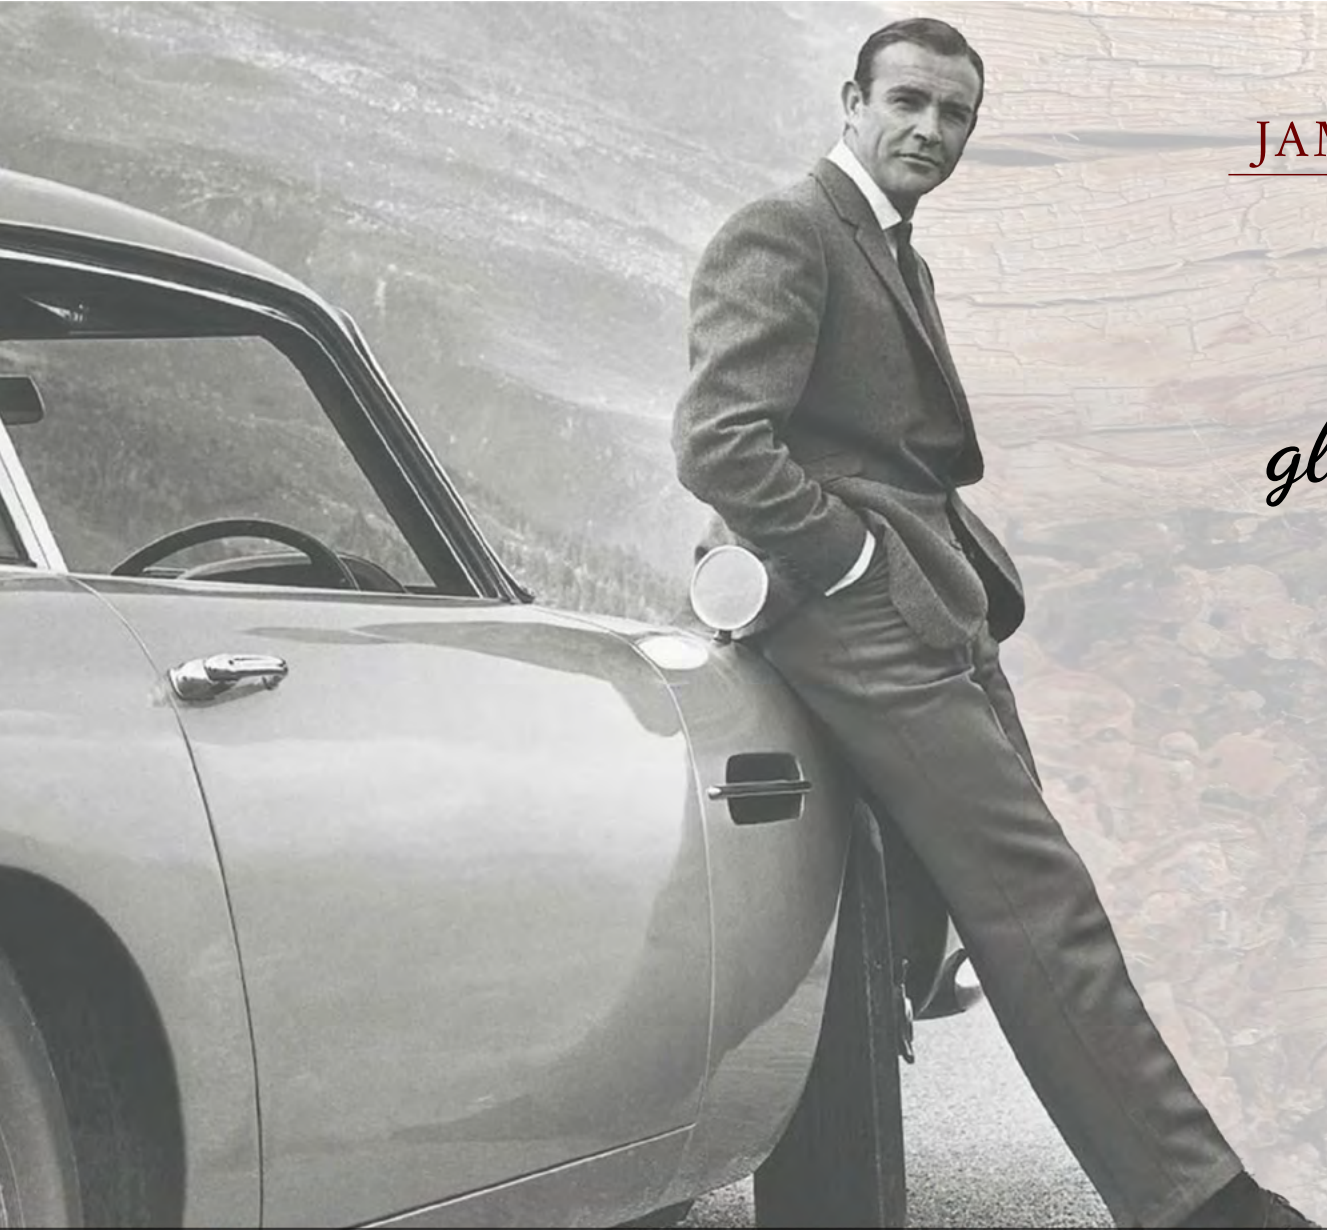

Next to it, the bar corner features a built-in minibar, bottle display, and a sculptural, rotating bar podium with expandable elements like extra tops and drawers.

The Staircase and Bedroom

The semi-helical staircase is designed as a sculptural element, wrapped in mosaic inspired by an ancient motif found beneath the Church of Santa Maria alla Piazza in Ancona—honoring the local heritage of Cantori and Cantiere delle Marche. At its core stands a curated art sculpture.

In the master bedroom, a centrally placed bed enables smooth circulation. Its tall headboard is covered in Rubelli Texlum—a patented fabric woven with optical fibers—creating a soft, atmospheric glow at night. Behind it lies a walk-through closet, maximizing wardrobe space.

The en-suite bathroom is symmetrically split into His and Hers, with a shared oversized shower and integrated bench. A custom storage wall provides space for towels and accessories.
